

Sunday, March 9, 2008

Speechless

There is a common denominator in the civilized world: Torturing is a barbaric thing of the the past. This denominator seperates us from dictatorship and tyranny. It´s one of the most basic pillars of humanity. President Bush heritage will be the enormous damage to the this foundation: Bush to Veto Waterboarding Bill. This leaves me speechless and in anger.

Posted by Joerg Moellenkamp in policy of ... at 09:58

Don't bullshit yourself. The common denominator of mankind will always be barbarism.
Anonymous on Mar 9 2008, 10:48

You are right, but i didn´t talked of the mankind, i talked about humanity.

Or from Macbeth: "I dare do all that may become a man; Who dares do more is none. "
Anonymous on Mar 9 2008, 10:57