Sorry

Sorry for writing nothing today, i'm preparing my new test system at the moment. As this system doesn't even have a optical drive, it's the basis for my next tutorial. This will be a revised version of my wiki article about JET, as i want to jumpstart the new machine.

Reference Wiki about JET

Sounds good, if possible could you also include information reference using JET to BACKUP servers instead of just build. Information on what should be saved abd re-applied after a flar image has been used to re-create a server would be very useful along with an example of a finish script that re-creates user accounts and networking.

Cheers

Keep up the informative site.
