

Thursday, June 12, 2008

Boeing 787 - first power on

The Flight Blogger reports in this article that the first power-on testing of the 787 had started. Interestingly this is one month after the planed delivery based on the original schedule . But good to see that this program makes some progress.

Posted by Joerg Moellenkamp in Aviation, English at 07:46