

Friday, April 17. 2009

Recommended listening: Röyksopp - Junior

Okay ... i already see questions in your mind ... what did Mr. Moellenkamp smoked to recommended this music. A few days ago a metalized version of Careless whisper and now electro pop. Just to answer this question: Nothing.

Due to my vacation and the preparation of my vacation i missed the new album from Röyksopp. Röyksopp? Yes, it's a norwegian group making electronic music. Many Mac Users know their music, at least one title, as their song Eple was the music in the Setup Assistant of Mac OS X v 10.3 Panther.

After four long years since The Understanding, they published a new album: Junior. I've just downloaded it and i'm really linking it. It's something like a mix of their first (Melody A.M.) and their second album (the already mentioned Understanding album). It's melodic and danceable like Understanding, but has many parallels to Melody. Why do i like it ... don't know ... but the music matched my mood at the moment really good.

I just wan't to recommend a few songs here: Röyksopp forever is a good example for the great instrumental track from this group. My favorite songs of this album are "This must be it", "The Girl and the Robot" and "You don't have a clue".

Posted by Joerg Moellenkamp in English, Music at 21:50