Nice picture, the wings look great. If the eye was in focus we would have an awesome picture on our hands....still have not got the 18-200 VR for my D50....

All the best

Blessed be who finds a beautiful target and get a chance to capture it..
It's a shame I don't have/take more time for photography. Each time I see one of your nature photo series, I declare "on my next motobike tour I'll take my camera with me".. and each time I find myself packing everything except the cam.
(on the other hand.. I might also start on my balcony at home.. there's enough nature there.. once the rain clears again..)

That is beautiful !! The detail is jaw dropping. You must be really proud of that one for sure.

Thanks for sharing those pictures with us and keep them coming as they brighten then day for sure.

All the best (and hoping to see another great game of football from Germany when you face Spain)

Take care
