

Friday, June 10, 2005

Links of the Day - Morning Edition

Scott McNealy thinks Windows Edition N will not make a difference

Arnet: Sun proposes to the princess of storage

For cryin' out loud, people, this is Sun! It invented Java. It has software that runs on every possible platform already. It has Solaris, a popular OS that got a mighty face-lift just last November. Do you really think Sun needs to acquire a software company? If so, how about starting a snow-selling business in Alaska next winter?

Posted by Joerg Moellenkamp in English, Oracle at 09:51